

Red carpet interview with Alicia Vikander.

CAROLINE FLACK: How are you this evening?

A. Very good thank you, I am so excited to be here.

Q. You look very sleek, very beautiful; who are you wearing?

A. Dior.

Q. Wow, let's have a little turn, let us see the whole dress? Look at that.

A. So I can keep my hands warm at least.

Q. Are you used to this weather? You must be used to the cold; right?

A. You know, now I'm back in London. I've missed London, and it should rain; right?

Q. Yeah, we feel more British than ever!

Congratulations on your nomination for rising star; how does that make you feel?

A. First of all, I am included with some other great actresses and actors, and I have seen their work and they're brilliant. The nomination took me here tonight. I am very excited to be here for the first time and -- no, I am just so happy.

Q. Excluding your film, what film have you enjoyed the most this year? Who deserves to get the BAFTA?

A. I think that -- Argo. I hope that is going to win. Then I hope for, of course, Anna Karenina for the British film, and then Amour was fantastic. And then I also help that Searching for Sugar Man, I think that was a fantastic --

Q. All nominated. Good luck tonight.

A. Thank you.

Q. Such a good award to be nominated and have a good evening.

A. You too. Bye!
