

ELIZABETH OLSEN

NEW SPEAKER: I'm with Elizabeth Olsen. Hi, how are you?

A. Hi. I'm really great. How are you doing?

Q. Very well. Nominated for Rising Star, how are you feeling about that? Excited?

A. I'm really excited. It's nice to be recognised in an international way especially when I'm usually part of such small projects.

Q. You got the last flight out New York last night?

A. I did. I took a 10.30 flight last night and the flight at like 9.30 before me was cancelled so I got lucky.

Q. You've got to be happy you were on that flight.

A. I just made it.

Q. Best of luck tonight. What have you got coming up next?

A. Oldboy that Spike Lee directed will be coming out in October and a movie called Thérèse, a period piece that I did with Jessica Lange and Oscar Isaacs.

Q. Working with Spike Lee, that must have been brilliant.

A. He's awesome. I'm just about to start working on Godzilla.

Q. Just that little project?

A. Yes, I'm really excited. It's my first big studio film.

Q. When you were doing the last film you'd just graduated from drama school or college too?

A. I just graduated at the end of January.

Q. You don't hang about, you Olsens.

A. I feel like I don't know what to do with my time off because I'm done with school so I have to figure out something like an animal to take care of.

Q. I wouldn't worry too much about it. Thank you so much. Have a great evening.

A. Thank you.
